World of Nature

Hold Your Horses!

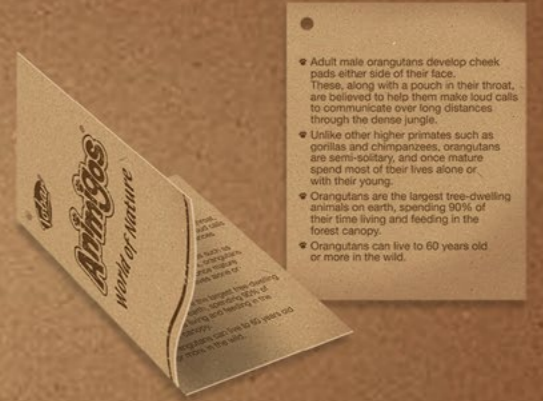

Our menagerie of super-soft cuddlies continues to grow, from farmyard favourites to countryside companions, there really is a furry friend for everyone. All made using recycled filling.

Our Animigos World of Nature collection is not only super cute but eco-friendly too. The stuffing is made from 100% recycled PET which mainly comes from recycled food packaging and plastic bottles. This helps to reduce the amount of plastic going to landfill and the amount of new plastic being produced.

Not only are Animigos World of Nature toys supercuddly but our packaging is also educational as each hangtag comes with a variety of fun facts about that particular creature...and who doesn't love a fun fact?

Adult male orangutans develop cheek pads either side of their face. These, along with a pouch in their throat, are believed to help them make loud calls to communicate over long distances through the dense jungle.
Unlike other higher primates such as gorillas and chimpanzees, orangutans are semi-solitary, and once mature spend most of their lives alone or with their young.
Orangutans are the largest tree-dwelling animals on earth, spending 90% of their time living and feeding in the forest canopy.
Orangutans can live to 60 years old or more in the wild.
